How can we not marvel at thine

Offspring, for He is both God and man, O all-revered One? For without experience of wedlock, thou, O all-blameless One, hast brought forth in the flesh a fatherless Son,

Who was born motherless of the Father before the ages, and Who in no way suffered change or intermingling or division, but preserved in their entirety the properties of each essence.

Therefore, O Lady Virgin Mother, do thou entreat Him that the souls of them that, in Orthodox manner profess thee to be God's Birth-giver may be saved.
